Acknowledgments - I would like to thank Dan Clark at DCR for sharing expertise, studies, and contacts with wildlife photographers. Dale Monette generously shared his photos of beavers in the Quabbin area and provided excellent tail and foot images to illustrate points I wanted to make. Kathleen Lombard was kind enough to furnish pictures of beavers in NH and even visited a museum in an attempt to get beaver teeth and tail pictures of stuffed animals in case I could not source living examples. And finally, thanks to Eric Olick who made a special trip to Mass Audubon's Habitat Sanctuary to photograph their beaver skull replica while I was writing this article in CO.
